BATTLE INTRODUCTION: GLOWACZOW, POLAND, 9 September 1939 - By the 9th of September, forward German units were already probing the outskirts of Warsaw. During the first week of the campaign the Polish 1st LTB had been sent to numerous areas to plug gaps in the Polish lines, and to disrupt German movements and supplies. In this capacity, the 1st LTB had been successful, also causing losses whenever they ran into Panzers. Now as Polish units fell back from the frontier, the 1st LTB was tasked with keeping corridors open for Polish units trying to fall back to Warsaw, before it was completely cut off. On the 9th of September, the 1st LTB was given just such a task, when supported by the 13th Infantry Division, they moved to dislodge the German 1st Leichte out of Glowaczow.

BATTLE SUMMARY: In support of the 13th Infantry Division, the 1st LTB succeeded in helping drive the Germans out of Glowaczow. The two units held open a corridor for numerous other Polish units to fall back on Warsaw. The 1st LTB then assisted the 13th in falling back on Warsaw itself. However, by the 14th of September, the writing was on the wall for the 1st LTB. The unit was dispersed due to a combination of battlefield losses, maintenance and mechanical issues and a lack of fuel. An ignominious end for a proud, though short-lived battle history.
